Darling Design Selected For SRS Logo

By Peter Martin

The new SRS logo, illustrated here, was unveiled at the society's annual meeting held October 1 at the 1994 Philadelphia National Stamp Exposition in King of Prussia, Pa.

The logo will be used on the SRN banner beginning with the first quarter 1995 issue and with future SRS publications and promotions.

Designed by Katherine Darling, president of the Charlotte, N.C.-based Darling Design and Illustration, the logo was selected by the SRS membership from among three finalists depicted in the January-February 1994 SRN. Darling, who found out about the contest from her SRS member father, received a $100 cash prize for her winning entry.

Darling started her design, entry number one in the contest, by borrowing a set of stamp tongs from her father along with a copy of the contest guidelines and going to work. She used a circular shape for the logo and used a traditional serif typestyle for the wording "State Revenue Society, EST. 1955" in an outer band.

Darling added the United States map, including Alaska and Hawaii to symbolize the society's state focus. As a representation of fiscal philately, she designed tongs and a magnifying glass for the foreground and tilted them slightly to provide perspective and dimension to the logo. She held the elements in the center of the circle together by adding the outline of a perforated stamp. For the requirement of research and scholarship, she used the "lamp of knowledge" for the symbolism.

Besides logos, Darling's firm handles a variety of projects, including brochures, catalogs, computer graphics and courtroom sketching. Before starting her own business in 1994, Darling was art director for the NBC affiliate in Charlotte. There she handled television set design, animation, news graphics and promotions.

She resides in Charlotte with her husband and four year old daughter.

SRS Sponsors Revenue Stamp Design Poll

By Peter Martin

Of the thousands of state revenue stamps that have been issued since 1857, which have the best design? Which are the most popular?

Those are questions that SRS members will have the opportunity to answer in a Society-sponsored poll to be held in 1995.

The first step in the poll lets all members nominate their favorite state revenue stamp, the state revenue stamp with the best design and the ugliest state revenue stamp.

The only guideline for the contest is that the stamp must have been issued by a state agency. Cinderellas don't qualify.

For each category, identify the state, stamp type, year of issue, denomination and catalog name and number. Better yet, include a photocopy of the stamps.

For this portion of the poll, up to three entries in each category are permitted.

The top nominations will be published in a future SRN and members will be determine the winners. Results will be

SRS Election Held

On the back page of this issue SRS members will find the society's 1995 officer ballot. While all incumbents are running unopposed for their current offices, it is important that SRS members forward their ballots to show their support for the organization.

For members who do not want to cut up their issue of SRN, photocopies of the ballot form are permitted. Be sure to follow the voting instructions as provided.

Officers will serve a two-year term.

provided to the philatelic media and in the SRN.

Send your nominations by June 1, 1995, to the editor at: SRS Stamp Poll, POB 45553, Tinker, OK 73145.

Editor's Note

To my chagrin the State Revenue Newsletter production schedule is way behind, a fact that has become obvious to most SRS members. Professional commitments and my move to Oklahoma have contributed to the delay.

SRS Secretary Scott Troutman stepped forward to assist in putting the auction listings together so that this issue, which also includes the SRS election ballot could get into the mail.

You will probably receive the November-December issue prior to the double July-October issue that includes Dr. John Crook's Turkey Catalog. On the heels of that issue you will then receive the First Quarter 1995 issue. That will put us back on schedule. Your patience is appreciated!
