Mr. Applegate has shown us some more of the Pennsylvania local real estate tax stamps and hunting stamps. Incidentally, he advises that in the future he will confine his activities to these two classes of state revenues only and that he has disposed of his stock of all other kinds to Mr. Hubbard.

Mr. Applegate is one of the pioneer dealers and collectors of state revenues and it is with regret that we learn of his decision, even though he continues in a limited way.

UNITED STATES SILVER CERTIFICATES
WITH MISMATCHED SERIAL NUMBERS

It was our pleasure to hear from James W. Seville, who was a very active collector and dealer of state revenues several years ago.

He enclosed a picture of one of these notes and says that as far as he knows they were found only in Statesville.

If we have any readers also interested in paper money, they will do well to contact him at Box 866, Statesville, North Carolina.

We had read of these in the press but did not connect them with Statesville or Mr. Seville at the time.

This is a major error as far as paper money goes.

EASTMAN COLLEGE BANK STAMP

Although not a state revenue item we believe some will be interested in the stamp shown, still on the "check" as used in the business college. This seems to have been located in Poughkeepsie, New York.

Due to the fact that we have again gotten behind in the publication of the Newsletter, we have omitted the usual second page and cut this number short. We will endeavor to catch up in the February number which we hope to have out in a week or so.
